Answer ALL Questions

Question One : COMPREHENSION (30 marks)

Read the following passage carefully then answer the questions that follow it.

Sudan is one of the richest countries in wildlife in Africa. This animal wealth belongs to all Sudanese people, and it is our duty to protect and preserve it. In the past, people were allowed to hunt animals for food. They used traditional weapons such as spears, arrows and nets. But this method of hunting didn't affect the number of the animals because the amount they killed was limited. But when firearms were later introduced, specially by those hunting for commercial purposes, animals were killed in great numbers and some species became threatened with extinction. That was why the government established the Department of Wildlife Conservation and Tourism to protect animals.

In some parts of the Sudan, there are several game parks and forest reserves where no one may hunt and kill a wild animal. One of the famous parks in the Sudan is Nimule National Park . It is south of Juba on the border with Uganda. National parks can bring income to our country. Tourists come from various countries to the Sudan to see different species of animals which are not found in their own country. They bring with them money in hard currency to spend while they are in the Sudan. We need this money to improve our economy.

Question Two : SUMMARY : (17 marks)

Read the following passage carefully. Look for the main ideas, and then in your own words, as far as possible, write a summary. Your answer should be a connected piece of writing.

Eating the proper food in the correct amount is essential for every person. Proteins are important for the body's growth and maintenance. Carbohydrates give the body the energy it needs for work, sports and exercises. Carbohydrates are found in rice, potatoes, wheat, vegetables and fruits. Fats are essential for good health. They maintain the body and provide energy. Vitamins, minerals and water are essential to good health. Moreover, they help the body to work more efficiently.

The main desire for food is hunger, but people also eat when their stomach is not completely empty. They are not hungry but still have an appetite for food. The smell of fried fish, the sight of porridge, meat or kisra make them want to eat. In addition, food helps them to meet social and emotional needs. People enjoy having meals together. Social occasions in general are always celebrated by special meals.
